Project: _____

A close-up, low-angle shot looking up at the underside of a wooden table. The table's top is made of a thick, light-colored wood with a visible grain. The support structure is a black metal frame consisting of a rectangular base with four legs. The legs are thick and cylindrical, with a slight flare at the bottom. The frame is made of heavy-duty metal bars, and the overall design is industrial and sturdy.
